

Sisters and Brothers,

Again, I bring you “Greetings” from the south of our fair state. I hope that you are all well.

Our situation continues. We are doing everything we can think of to halt the spread of the virus. We wash our hands frequently and thoroughly. We wear masks to guard against transmission. We maintain a physical distance and stay at home as much as possible. These things we can and must do.

However, we all have lives to live. Life goes on and we will adapt and continue. As our AGP so aptly and eloquently pointed out to us, one of the most important things we can do is maintain our sense of humor. Myself, I plan on practicing social distancing from my refrigerator. I get all excited trying to figure out what to wear when I take out the trash! On the phone, a friend onfided to me that his neighbor was seen talking to her cat. It was obvious to him that she thought her cat understood her. He told me that he went back into his house and told his dog about it and they both had a good laugh! Who would have thought that when we changed our clocks from standard time that we would be going to the twilight zone!

As we reach out to our sisters and brothers, please pass on the gift of humor. The spirit can always use a boost!

Remember Jeff Mersmann’s “Advice from An Old Farmer”, “Every path has a few puddles”.

Place your trust in yourself, your family, your friends and your God.

Lastly, “be wary of strong drink. It can make you shoot at tax collectors and miss”. Robert A. Heinlein

Sincerely, Your Brother
