

Hola Sisters and Brothers,

I'm writing to you as I depart beautiful Puerto Morelos Mexico. Puerto Morelos is about twenty minutes south of Cancun and is a quaint little beach town in the Mayan Riviera. While the weather forecast for the week looked a little dismal, we were pleasantly surprised by lots of sunshine. We spent time at the beach, snorkeling, relaxing in the pool, eating some wonderful food, making some new friends, and most importantly, enjoying some much needed sister time! I met two of my sisters here this week for a fun COVID escape. After losing our mom last year we've made a point to get together as much as possible, and generally have our next get together planned before we separate. That always makes our "goodbyes" easier. I hope that whatever you're doing during this time of social distancing, you find time to relax and enjoy your loved ones. I know that for me it's been a much needed way to simplify my life, without all the hustle and bustle of "normal" life. So, if you can't escape, I hope you're finding some ways to make the time special in it's own way. I look forward to seeing you all again soon.

Hasta Luego,
Jaimee McCullough
